A top-down photograph of a Moroccan Limestone Range. The floor is composed of large, irregular, light-colored limestone tiles with a natural, porous texture. In the upper left, a piece of light-colored, textured fabric is draped over the tiles. To the right, a small, shallow, light-colored bowl contains a pile of white, flake-like material, possibly rice or a snack. A sprig of small, light pink flowers with green leaves is placed on the fabric. The overall aesthetic is rustic and natural.
